US EPA Office of Ground Water and Drinking Water Suzanne Kelly,

I strongly oppose approval of the Louisiana Department of Natural Resourceâ€™s application for primacy to regulate companies that seek to inject carbon dioxide waste underground.

This risky and unpopular plan violates the EPA's commitment to environmental justice and makes a mockery of Pres. Biden's promises to deal with the climate crisis. It would have a bad effect on the local and national environment, leading to inevitable toxic spills and carbon pollution. And it paves the way for wider adoption of carbon capture and storage, an untested and speculative technology that is likely to cause additional pollution and unlikely to lead to a significant reduction in carbon emissions.

EPA, please don't give up on your mission and your power to control carbon pollution and environmental poisons.

Laurence
